7 Minutes in Heaven

by Loving_Healer

Summary

Surely, nothing could go wrong with playing a dumb drinking game with your childhood best friend, right?

“It's Phainon, it's Phainon, it's Phainon!”

Hyacine was shaking the life out of Phainon as if he were blind and could not also register the glass bottle pointed directly at him. Though, with how violently Hyacine's hands were shaking him back and forth, he actually couldn't see the bottle anymore with how much his vision was blurring.

“I get it, Hyacine, so please stop shaking me,” Phainon mumbled miserably, earning a hasty apology from the pink-haired woman.

It was New Year's Eve, and Phainon and his friends were crowded in his bedroom after a lengthy session of throwing firecrackers outside, binging movies, eating fast food, and drinking, when half of the group got bored with whatever they were watching and decided to play a game. Phainon couldn't blame them, since he was also barely paying attention to whatever was playing on his television screen.

The half of the group that wanted to do something else hadn't decided exactly what game they wanted to play, but they already gathered everyone into a circle to spin an empty beer bottle in the middle anyway. According to Cipher's words: “That is a later problem.”

Phainon wasn't exactly surprised that he was the first victim for whatever game he was about to be playing. After all, Phainon had absolutely terrible luck. Throughout his entire life, no matter how optimistic Phainon could be, it seemed that nothing ever went his way. Especially when it came to a certain golden-haired, childhood friend, who Phainon had been interested in since who-knows-how long and was currently sitting quite a ways away from Phainon in the circle. That breathtakingly intimidating man, currently sitting in Phainon’s apartment, was his gay awakening back when they were teenagers.

And it seemed like his bad luck was about to strike again, as Hyacine leaned forward to spin the bottle once more. Many people in the circle were chanting in excitement; most of the group was staring at the bottle with extreme anticipation, curious as to who would serve out what Phainon would consider a punishment with him. And when the bottle no longer appeared as a whirlwinded circle, when it started to slow down to a stop, Phainon swore his heart was crashing in his chest when the opening of the bottle finally landed upon a certain man sitting quite a ways away from him, and everyone's eyes grew wide at the sight.

“It's Mydei!” Hyacine gasped.

“It landed on Mydei!” Cipher threw her hands up into the air while thanking whatever supernatural force was looking down upon them. “I didn't want to be stuck with Phainon!”

Phainon rolled his eyes, trying to not stare at the beer bottle that was still glaring in his childhood friend's direction despite how rapidly his heart was pounding against his ribcage. “I don't want to be stuck with you either, Cipher.”

“So,” Mydei’s beautiful, sultry, and deep voice cut through a tandem of cheers as he crossed his arms across his chest, “what are we doing?”

The people who planned this whole debacle seemed to freeze, and they exchanged curious glances with one another as they were still unsure where they were going with this.

“You said it was a later problem, Cipher,” Anaxa muttered. “So here's your problem. What are they doing? I'm not sitting in this circle for nothing.”

“I'm thinking! I'm thinking!” Cipher cried, her shoulder slumping in exasperation. “What do people usually play when they spin the bottle?”

Aglaea smiled in amusement in Cipher's direction as her golden eyes twinkled while watching Cipher slump her body this way and that while trying to think of an idea. “Usually, Spin the Bottle is reserved for truth or dare. Considering we made two people spin the bottle, we can make them do something together.”

“Like a dare together?” Cipher furrowed her eyebrows.

“It could be that,” Aglaea replied. “It could also be anything the group wants them to do.”

“Anything?”

A timid, quiet voice spoke from the edge of the circle, where all eyes immediately shot toward a lavender-haired woman who had her knees pulled up against her chest while she sat on the floor.

Aglaea nodded slowly. “If you have an idea, Castorice, we would be glad to hear it.”

“Then…” Castorice shifted in place, seeming to rear herself up for something. She cleared her throat as if she had a grand announcement to make, and her earnest and determined gaze locked onto Phainon’s eyes, which immediately grew wide in confusion. “Phainon, you have a walk-in closet, right?”

“Err, yes?” Phainon smiled sheepishly with his eyes flickering to the closet door in his room. “What does that have to do with anything?”

“Could we… perhaps…” Castorice was shifting again in her place on the floor, with eyes darting around the room and the circle before her as everyone's attention was trained on her. Her voice lowered in a mutter so quiet that Phainon could barely hear her horrid suggestion: “Could we have them do Seven Minutes in Heaven?”

Phainon's mind immediately blanked out despite the hoots and hollers over Castorice's suggestion. He could barely register Castorice’s face, which was blooming a bright, crimson red. He could barely register the people around him or their opinion of the suggestion, and he could barely register the people calling for Phainon's and Mydei’s names over his violently quickening heartbeat and violently shivering hands.

Seven Minutes in Heaven?! Castorice’s final words were like a drop into undisturbed water, echoing endlessly in Phainon's empty brain that could no longer make sense of anything that was currently happening in his apartment.

Something tugged on his hand, bringing his vision back into focus and pulling him from his stupor, where the light in his bedroom had been eclipsed by the body of a sculpted Greek God with long, blonde hair dyed crimson at its ends. Another impatient tug pulled Phainon from his silent, blatant admiration of the man in front of him, and Phainon immediately began blabbering nonsense about his unfortunate situation.

“Seven Minutes in Heaven?” Phainon forced a chuckle out of his constricting throat while Mydei was trying to pull him from the floor. But Phainon wanted to stay here forever and ever, rooted to this very spot in his bedroom instead of being shoved into his closet with a man who has been constantly circulating his mind for probably decades. “Isn't there… Maybe someone has a better idea? Shouldn't we brainstorm a couple of ideas before settling on one already?”

“The fact that you're so nervous makes me more convinced this is the best idea.” Cipher snickered.

“Can't you have mercy on me?” Phainon pleaded with downturned eyes and an exaggerated pout. “It's not like Mydei and I are going to do anything in there! We've been friends since we were little!”

“Then, I'm sure you won't have any complaints sitting with your friend in a closet for seven minutes.” With Cipher’s final words slamming into him like hitting the final nail into a coffin, both men were rushed into Phainon's own closet as the door slammed shut behind them.

The immediate deafening silence was overbearing, weighing heavily on Phainon's extremely tense shoulders. It was dark. It was stuffy. Phainon used this closet for more than just clothes; there wasn't much storage space in his apartment to begin with, so there were unnamed miscellaneous items scattered within this space. It could comfortably fit Phainon whenever he needed to find something, but certainly not two, well-built adult men in their twenties.

Phainon pulled his hand away from the other man, scrambling as far as he could to the opposite end of the wall. He was basically dragged into here by Mydei's strong and very capable arms, so Phainon was still sprawled on the floor as he hid as best as he could and shrank himself into the corner.

“So,” Phainon coughed, breaking their eerie silence, “how has life been?”

A silence only answered back. Phainon could already envision the mocking eyebrow being raised in his direction from the only other person in this closet with him. They had known each other almost their whole lives, after all. Phainon knew every single reaction that Mydei could possibly have to his words.

“I guess we could… sit out the seven minutes?” Phainon sheepishly laughed. He could barely hear his own voice over how loudly his heart was ringing in his ears, and Phainon only hoped Mydei could not also hear his palpitating heartbeat. But how could anyone blame him? He was crowded in a closet with his childhood best friend, who had been the object of Phainon's affection for an uncountable number of years, playing Seven Minutes in Heaven! A game that was known for insinuating sexual acts!

A rustling followed from in front of Phainon. His adjusting vision could barely make out a figure settling onto the floor in the dark.

“Hmph. You would sit out these seven minutes in silence?” Mydei's voice rang clearly in the dark, as if emphasizing in Phainon's head who exactly he was trapped in this ridiculous game with.

Phainon swore he could already see Mydei's arms crossed across his broad, very sculpted chest, despite the complete darkness that was still surrounding his vision. He swallowed thickly just imagining the sight. The action always emphasized how… big Mydei's chest was. Phainon had already been caught staring directly at Mydei's chest instead of into his eyes, and Phainon always had to brush off Mydei's incriminating glares with excuses of wondering about Mydei's exercise routine. “I mean, can't we? We can also… talk, I guess?”

Mydei scoffed. “What are you so nervous about, HKS?”

It was a mocking nickname Mydei had picked up in a history book a long time ago when they were children, and the name had stuck to Phainon ever since. Despite the negative connections the nickname held, was it bad that Phainon liked it? That Mydei had a special nickname just for him and no one else?

“I'm not nervous!” Phainon retorted a little too quickly, and he sank back into an awkward silence at the realization.

“Can't handle a measly game?” Mydei's taunting voice echoed against Phainon's shivering body. Was it just Phainon, or was it just really cold in his closet? His entire body was shaking, and Phainon could not stop the tremors that were rushing through his body or the sinking feeling in the pit of his stomach.

He drew his knees up to his chest, wrapping his arms around his legs in the corner of the closet Phainon was hiding in while he tried to forget this uncomfortable feeling swirling in his core. “I'm handling it quite well, thank you. Look at how much time we're using up already!”

“It hasn't even been a minute, HKS.”

“... Seriously?” This has got to be the longest and most grueling seven minutes of Phainon's life.

Another scoff resounded in the stuffy closet. “What are you so afraid of?”

“I didn't say I was afraid of anything,” Phainon retorted at a much more reasonable pace this time, and he inwardly patted himself on the back for it. His brain was running in overdrive from the adrenaline pumping in his veins, and Phainon could not make sense of the time at all.

“Then, why are you hiding in the deepest corner of the closet?”

“I'm not–” Phainon jumped, muffling a pathetic scream and hitting the back of his head against the wall when a hand suddenly gripped his knee. “Why are you so close?!” Phainon hissed at the figure that was slowly becoming unveiled in Phainon's adjusting vision. When did Mydei get over here? No, the better question was, why was he here? Phainon thought his hiding spot was good enough to hide away from this man for seven minutes, so why in the world did Mydei come crawling over?!

“Why were you so far?” Mydei returned the question with not an ounce of emotion in his voice. It was typical of Mydei not to be affected by anything in the slightest, and it only made Phainon's blood boil at how well Mydei kept his cool.

“There's no reason to be this close.” Phainon made up an excuse.

“I can barely hear you from over there.”

“My closet's not even that big!” Phainon cried. “You can hear me plenty from over there!”

“Well, I'm here now, aren't I? So why don't we play this game like how we're supposed to?”

Phainon couldn't even get a word of confusion to leave his throat before two hands tightly grasped his knees, pulling his legs apart and making Phainon sink deeper into the floor. His eyes shot wide as he tried to scramble and close his legs, but Mydei’s grip was way too strong against his knees as he pried Phainon's floundering legs open.

“Wait, wait, wait! What are you doing?!” Phainon's sweating hands flew to Mydei's hands to try and swat them away, but it was as if the strength fled all of his limbs as he was at the mercy of Mydei's ministrations.

“Playing the game,” Mydei simply stated as if he were just completing routine household chores. “Is this not how you play the game?”

“We don't have to do anything!” Phainon's words were so frantic that they were all stringing together into a single, shaky breath. “We can just talk! Or if you really want to do something, we can hug or kiss or something! So why are you spreading my legs and–Listen to me and stop pulling at my pants!” Phainon's hands flew to Mydei's wandering hands, but the other man didn't seem to budge.

“Is this not the point of the game?” Mydei's hands were basically rooted to Phainon's waistband despite how much Phainon felt like he was tugging at his wrists. “Do you not want to do this?”

“Do I–” Phainon immediately erased the thought and the image corroding his short-circuiting mind. “That's not the point! I–Mydei, you don't have to do this for the game.”

“Hmph. You scared, HKS?”

“What?!” Phainon hissed. He could not even believe this man! He also could not believe how much his blood was boiling just from those challenging words! Phainon groaned exasperatedly, hitting the back of his head against the wall–voluntarily, this time. “Mydei, that may be what the game is for, but there's no rules or anything that say we have to do anything in this closet. We can just sit out these seven minutes and talk about… work, or something."

Mydei coughed. "You really think I want to talk about work right now?"

"It doesn't have to be about work." Phainon's blood was cooling now that he was not staring directly into the golden eyes that seemed to be leering at him in the dark. His eyes were glued to the ceiling above them, where all Phainon could see was complete darkness. "We can talk about anything. Your day, or plans that you have coming up, or someone else you'd rather be playing this game with other than me."

A brief silence settled over them. Mydei's hands were now completely still on Phainon's pajama pants, and it didn't take long until Mydei's fingers slowly withdrew. "Someone else?" It was a tone of voice Phainon could not recall ever hearing from his best friend, and it revealed little of Mydei's thoughts or feelings.

"Yeah." Phainon's shoulders slumped at the thought–at the thought of Mydei spreading someone else's legs in a cramped closet solely for a game. Phainon was sure that if he were anyone else, they would already be doing unspeakable acts. How could anyone deny someone so beautiful and perfect, such as Mydei, after all? "I'm sure there's someone else you'd rather be playing Seven Minutes in Heaven with other than your best friend."

"Why would I play this stupid game with anyone else?"

Phainon gawked. "Wha–" His head shot down to stare exasperatedly at the man still staring deeply into his heart. "Are you calling me stupid? I didn't want to play this game either, you know."

"When did I say that?"

"Did you not just call the game stupid? Meaning I'm also stupid for playing this game?"

Another brief silence settled between the two men. Phainon couldn't see what sort of expression Mydei held upon his perfect face, so it was hard to tell exactly what was running through his mind.

"Would you play this game with someone else?"

Phainon paused. He stared inquisitively at Mydei in front of him, yet he still could not tell what his friend was thinking.

"Why would I willingly shove myself into my own closet with someone else?" It was Phainon's turn to scoff.

"Then, you would only play this sort of game with me?"

A warm breath ghosted Phainon's lips, and he froze. His back grew rigid, his shoulders grew tense, and the breath caught in his throat at the golden eyes being revealed to him so closely in the dark. Mydei had somehow crept between Phainon's legs, sliding his thighs underneath

Phainon's until he was basically straddling the guy, and the familiar feeling churning in the pit of Phainon's stomach from this revealing position was not good. Not good at all.

Phainon refused to answer. His lips had parted, but only frantic breaths left his throat because of the heat sprouting from his lower abdomen and locking his body in place. His eyes were wide, vision shaking at the deep golden gaze locked against him, as if he were a prey being caught in the dead of the night. At this close proximity, Mydei could definitely hear Phainon's ringing heart.

“Mydei?” Phainon's throat was dry as he forced the name out of his lips. He swallowed once more to rid himself of the nerves creeping into his veins, but they only served to heighten the longer Mydei refused to move from pinning Phainon against his own closet wall.

Phainon was close enough to see Mydei's face now, even in this endless darkness. It was a face that Phainon was always searching for in abundant crowds; a face that Phainon always fled toward for comfort and for peace. He watched those beautifully golden eyes flickering back and forth in discomfort as he gnawed upon his bottom lip, and Phainon resisted bringing a hand up to cradle the face in front of him and separate his teeth from his bottom lip. Instead, he kept his hands rooted to his sides, watching with conflicting emotions battling inside of him as Mydei battled within his own head.

“Phainon.” A breath finally left Mydei's lips, ghosting over Phainon and sending deep shivers rushing down his back. Phainon's face immediately flushed red; whether it was from how much the blood rushed down his body to the stirring heat between his legs from the hot breath or from Mydei actually using his name, Phainon wasn't sure, but he didn't want to think about it at all or else he would be all the more aware of the awakening heat firing up below his waist that was pushing against the confines of his pants.

Instead, Phainon stayed silent, with wide eyes watching Mydei’s every flickering emotion. He looked so conflicted, as if there was an inner pain sparking within him, and Phainon wished that he could jump into Mydei's brain to help him just a little bit. Just so that Mydei no longer had to wear such a pained expression ever again. Mydei's gorgeous, ethereal features should never be dressed in pain or discomfort. Mydei did not deserve to be in pain at all, and Phainon would fight for that guarantee forever.

“Mydei?” Phainon tried again, balling his shaking hands into fists against the closet floor. He wanted so badly to pull Mydei into a tight embrace, whisper sweet nothings into his ears, and have Mydei abandon all thoughts and conflicts that were giving rise to the painful emotions coursing through him.

At the sound of his name, golden eyes snapped toward Phainon, making the breath immediately halt in Phainon's throat. Despite the unreadable emotions still swirling with Mydei's enchanting eyes, Mydei's voice was with an air of clarity, as if he had come to accept every and all repercussions that would come with the decisions he made. Just as Mydei always did, and just as Phainon admired. But this time, the words that came could only be found in Phainon's wildest, deepest dreams–dreams that Phainon would refuse to recall for anyone else, yet were playing right in front of him before his very eyes and his very ears.

It was completely silent in the closet, with only the sounds of their faint breaths echoing in the darkness, yet Phainon felt that he could barely hear Mydei's resounding words. His entire mind had gone blank; more so than it had ever had that night, and his entire body went slack as he stared into Mydei's unwavering, glowing gaze.

“I like you, Phainon.”

It felt like Phainon's entire mind was fried. Phainon could not make sense of the words being laid out to him on a silver platter, and it felt like a dish that was not supposed to be served to Phainon. Yet, here Phainon was, the only recipient of these words in a dark closet within his own apartment. There was no one else within a span of a thousand meters to whom these words were being spoken, but Phainon's brain refused to accept that these words were supposed to be spoken to him. It was almost as if Phainon were peeking into a room he wasn't supposed to be looking in, watching a heartfelt confession that wasn't meant for him.

“What?” It was the only thing that Phainon's brain could conjure, and the only thing his mouth could possibly form. Surely, Phainon must be dreaming. Surely, this must be another one of the many dreams Phainon had had over the course of many, many years and through many, many lonely nights. This dream was playing out just like any of his other dreams. Of course, this was a dream.

“Are you making me say it again?”

Phainon did not register the weak glare being pointed at him; instead, his wide eyes filled with wonder were drawn to the deep, crimson blush spreading across Mydei's adorable face and creeping down to blend into the crimson strands brushing against his neck. Phainon wanted to freeze this moment in place so that he could return to this image for the rest of his life. A shy blush that was littered across Mydei’s cheeks, with an adorable frown adorning his lips–Phainon wanted to treasure and hold this sight all to himself.

“You… like me?” His voice was faint and breathless as his eyes searched across Mydei's burning expression, as if trying to search for some sort of ruse within his words. With Mydei's words settling into his head, Phainon was breathing hard as if he had run a lap across his apartment complex, and the pounding heart rattling his chest did little to help. Even speaking the words out loud didn't sound real to Phainon, and he resisted looking around his closet and wondering where the break was to end this beautiful dream.

“I wouldn't play such a game with anyone else,” Mydei muttered. His resolute eyes stared deeply into icy blue ones and took Phainon’s breath away. “Only with someone that… I want to do these sorts of things with.”

“These sorts of things…” Phainon repeated in a trance. His own face began to heat up at the thought and at the insinuations within his words, and Phainon was all too reminded of the stirring warmth between his opened legs.

“Do you want to, Phainon?” A gentle hand rested upon Phainon's knee once more. It was a much more tender touch than before, and Phainon couldn't help the soft smile from rising to his lips at the polite ask for permission.

It felt like the weight of the world was finally lifted off Phainon's chest. He felt liberated. He felt free. It felt like everything Phainon had been holding back for so many years was finally lifted from his shoulders, and he was soaring through a dream. Phainon wished that he would never wake up–that he would sink within the comforting darkness of the night forever. “I want to, Mydei. I want you, Mydeimos.”

Phainon could barely see the gentle smile that also grew upon Mydei’s perfect lips as Phainon's words bounced within his head. A teasing tone left his throat as he leaned closer, brushing their lips against each other with every syllable he spoke. “You want me?”

A breathless laugh shook Phainon's chest. The faint brushes of soft lips against him only stirred his heart and the arousal that was already swirling in his stomach. It felt like Phainon's entire body was vibrating, thrumming like an awakening engine as he finally returned the emotions that Mydei had gifted to him so graciously and so generously: “I like you, Mydeimos. More than you could ever imagine.”

The short distance between them closed as Mydei leaned forward, pressing their lips together and sending electricity rushing down Phainon's spine. His eyes grew wide at this newfound feeling and newfound pleasure that only Phainon could find in his wildest imagination, but he shut them to revel in the feeling of Mydei's soft lips finally moving against his, earnestly trying his best to return the same emotions of passion and love that were spilling from Mydei's heart.

The pleasure was hitting Phainon in waves, heating his entire body up to breathtaking temperatures, so much so that Phainon was finding it hard to breathe the more Mydei charged forward. Mydei had grasped Phainon's cheeks, tilting his head upwards to deepen the kiss, and Phainon could only let out a weak moan at the tongue that prodded his bottom lip before slipping inside. Phainon's chest was heaving despite the little air he was getting in this position, yet his heart was pounding and racing against his chest, filling every single empty spot in Phainon's mind.

His senses were filled with Mydei: The taste of the booze that they shared lingered upon the curious tongue that swept through Phainon’s mouth; the smell of the firecrackers that lingered upon Mydei's clothing from earlier in the night; and the heat that burned Phainon's neck with every touch of Mydei's gentle fingers as they rubbed small, mindless circles into Phainon's tattoo. It felt as if Mydei were caressing him, treasuring him, and Phainon's own face burned at how gently Mydei was treating him.

It was immensely different from the way they always treated each other: with harsh shoves and rough words being thrown at each other. Impossible challenges that they rose to in attempts to win over the other, and the ever-so-often sneers and taunts they played between their words and their eyes. It was as if none of those ever existed with how softly Mydei was treating him, even when their lips finally parted after what Phainon was convinced was actually seven minutes.

Phainon's lips were cold, with freezing wind slotting themselves into the place where Mydei's lips used to exist. He was lost in the half-lidded golden eyes that were shining against him in the dark, reflecting even Phainon's vulnerable, flushed state. The hands that had been caressing him so gently left his skin, and Phainon felt exposed. He felt empty without Mydei's touch filling all five of his senses, and he wanted to pull the man back into another tight embrace and kiss him forever. Forever and ever and ever, until they were forcibly dragged from this closet.

That was until there was a rough tug at the hem of his pants once more.

"M–Mydei?!" Phainon's eyes shot down to his lap, where he could barely see his own erection swinging from his underwear to stand tall and proud in his dark closet. He tried to move to stop the other man, but either Phainon reacted too slowly or Mydei was way too fast. Either way, his pajama pants were now gathered at his ankles, and another rough tug had them discarded to join the rest of Phainon's clothes in his closet.

"Let me help you." A hot breath ghosted over Phainon's tip, and Phainon's entire body grew rigid at how close Mydei had suddenly become. Mydei was bending over, with soft, golden strands brushing against Phainon's skin and sending goosebumps to rise all along his arms. They tickled his length, which only served to make Phainon's dick quiver in anticipation and his stomach to swirl in hot arousal.

"I–I can take care of it, Mydei." Phainon had thrown a hand over his mouth, eyes wide in shock as he watched Mydei lower himself. A brief kiss was pressed against the head of Phainon's dick, making Phainon's hips jolt in place just from the simple pleasure that blossomed from his tip.

"Nonsense." Mydei's lips brushed against Phainon with every syllable he spoke. "This is part of the game, is it not? Unless you're too scared to play the game?"

Phainon clicked his tongue. He could already see Mydei's taunting, challenging smirk even in the dark, and he whipped his head to face the side to try and ignore how much his core was flaring in anticipation and excitement. He felt he could cum if Mydei touched him just one more time, and his body was already vibrating in place from the arousal shooting through his limbs and permeating his foggy mind.

"Then," Phainon's face was burning so brightly it felt as if he had a fever, and his voice lowered into a mutter, shaking with every breath, "do what you want."

A smile pressed against his tip–that was just how sensitive Phainon was. Never in thirty-three million years could he ever imagine this happening to him, yet here he was, with Mydei bent between his spread legs and admiring Phainon's hard erection that was already making a mess all over himself despite absolutely nothing happening. Another soft kiss pressed against his tip, and Phainon jumped. Pleasure shocked his body, locking him in place, and his lips dropped down, parting for a moan that filled the silence of the darkness.

A chuckle brushed against his length as firm hands pressed down against Phainon's hips. His dick was already twitching in place, but when a hot breath enveloped his cock, with lips wrapping so perfectly around his girth, Phainon had to slam his mouth deeper against his hand to muffle the filthy moan that left his throat. With his legs spreading wider and toes clenching together, Phainon threw his head back, moaning into his hand and digging his trembling heels into the floor.

His dick was sinking deeper and deeper into this hot cavern, embraced by Mydei's hot and wet mouth and caressed by his tongue. The heat was flaring in his core, and every attempt to thrust upwards in search of more heat was halted by Mydei's strong grasp. Phainon could barely breathe over how hot it was and how much Phainon was already sweating. His cock was burning and pulsing inside of Mydei's vast heat. It wrapped around him so beautifully, so perfectly, and a curse left Phainon's lips when his tip hit the back of Mydei's throat, sending a jolt of pleasure to rush up his waist to pool in the swirling arousal in his lower abdomen.

"Where did you… learn this," Phainon choked between desperate, panting gasps. He could feel Mydei's nose brushing into the silver hair below his waist, and Phainon's eyes were already rolling back into his head at the sensation of his dick sinking into this wet heat. His entire dick quivered, shaking inside of Mydei's warmth just as much as his legs were trembling around Mydei, and his entire body jumped when Mydei sucked hard.

Phainon slammed his head against the wall again, moaning wantonly into the air as Mydei began bobbing his head up and down his entirely pulsing length and up and down his leaking tip. Mydei was drinking everything up, lapping at Phainon's slit with the tip of his tongue and sliding down Phainon's shaft. Phainon's hands flew to Mydei's hair, tugging at the back of his head with every deep suck within Mydei's lips, and he could no longer hold back or muffle the sounds that were spilling from his parted lips.

He was savoring the pleasure that heated his body and the tongue that was deftly wrapping around his cock. He was savoring the arousal flaring in his core and the burning hand that was holding him down. He was savoring the tip of Mydei's nose that delved into the silver below his waist and the golden hair that brushed against his skin with every bob of Mydei's head.

Mydei was coating Phainon's dick, gulping the precum spilling down his length and licking a thick stripe along the underside of his twitching cock. His lips nipped at the base of his dick, kissing up and down his shaft, and opening wide to sink Phainon's dick entirely into his mouth. A moan vibrated against Phainon's dick, and another curse left Phainon's throat at the sensation of his dick vibrating within Mydei's mouth and quivering along the back of Mydei's throat. Again, another muffled moan echoed along his shaft, making him spasm in place and the heat to flare up in his stomach.

Only one hand wasn't enough to stop Phainon's thrusts, and he bucked his hips right into Mydei's warmth, eliciting wanton moans from both men. His dick sank deeper inside, eager for more heat to envelop his cock, and Phainon thrusted again, chasing the sweet friction that came from sliding his dick along Mydei's tongue. Why could he not move his hips before? His brain was too clouded with lust to even think of anything else except for the two plump lips wrapping around his pleasured cock.

Mydei was moaning with every drive of Phainon's hips, and Phainon's mind was melting from the pleasure his dick was swimming in. The vibrations massaged Phainon's cock, coaxing the precum to spill into Mydei's throat, and the muffled sounds of Mydei's raspy voice, solely because of Phainon's hard dick that he was sucking on, sent him into a new level of ecstasy. The closet was filled with the sounds of their filthy moans and the sloppy sounds reverberating along Phainon's length, and Phainon could not take it anymore.

He could not take how much his lower stomach was swirling in pleasure and how much heat was flaring in his body as that familiar feeling took hold of his core. Phainon tugged harshly on Mydei's hair in an attempt to pull him off, but a groan left his mouth when Mydei only sucked harder. Mydei buried his nose into silver hair, rooting his lips to the base of Phainon's dick and sucking hard, over and over and over again, and every movement of Mydei's lips made Phainon's stomach burn. His stomach was burning, flaring, and clenching in arousal and pleasure, and he could no longer stave off his oncoming orgasm anymore as the darkness in the closet was erased with white.

Phainon screamed Mydei's name as his entire body violently spasmed. His back sharply arched off the wall as he came, slamming his hips deep inside Mydei's mouth and spilling everything he was holding back right into his throat. Everything that Phainon had been holding back for all of these years was now dripping down Mydei's throat and spilling from the corners of his lips, and he softly thrusted his hips to milk every last drop that wanted to join the rest of his cum now spilling down Mydei's throat. He was clutching the back of Mydei's head as if his life depended on it, riding out the rest of his orgasm and rooting Mydei's lips to the base of his pulsing dick, up until Phainon's body finally went slack as he slumped against the wall of his closet.

He faintly heard a pop resound in the closet, and his dick was washed with the cold air once again. Phainon could barely open his eyes. The darkness had consumed his vision once more, and he could barely register what in the world Mydei was doing in front of him as he tried to catch his breath and recover from his mind-blowing orgasm. That was, until a weight settled into his lap, instantly alighting a new fire within his chest as icy blue eyes shot wide.

"Mydei?!"

"You've been saying my name a lot tonight." Mydei chuckled as he shifted in his seat on top of Phainon's thighs. Mydei had taken off his shirt while Phainon was recovering from his orgasm, so now sat an absolutely undressed and absolutely bare Mydei in his lap. "Did you think you were going to get off all by yourself?"

Phainon didn't know where to put his hands when such an ethereal being was straddling him, and they floundered about at his sides in a panic before finally balling into trembling fists at his side, vibrating against the closet floor. His shaking gaze was raised by a single finger hooking into the collar of his matching pajama shirt, and Phainon swore his heart and his breath stopped at the gorgeous sight above him. This man liked Phainon? Really? This breathtakingly otherworldly man with the most shining golden eyes Phainon has ever stared at? Phainon couldn't believe it for a single second, even when a quick peck against his lips fried his entirely overthinking brain.

"You… like me?" Phainon choked out.

Mydei scoffed. "You're asking me that again now? While your dick is still rutting against me?"

A brief thrust against Phainon's hips sent Phainon into a spiral. He choked on his own gasp, coughing for breath at the feeling of Mydei's ass rubbing against his, somehow still very hard, erection. His dick was still standing tall and proud, as if it did not just shoot a huge load inside of Mydei's mouth.

“You were still hard even after cumming into my mouth,” Mydei whispered lowly as if reading his thoughts, nudging his lips against Phainon's, whose eyes fluttered at the tingling sensation capturing his lips. Mydei chuckled, leaning back and planting his hands on Phainon's shoulders. He began slowly rutting his hips on top of Phainon, slotting Phainon's erection to slide between his cheeks. “Did you think I was going to kiss you again? My mouth is full of your cum, Phainon.”

Phainon's face burned at how lewdly Mydei was speaking to him. Never in his life did he ever imagine his best friend was such a dirty talker, yet his erection strained against Mydei’s soft skin at every vulgar word that came out of his mouth. He swore he was already leaking precum and smearing it all over Mydei with every slow thrust of Mydei's hips, and Phainon’s body jumped and shook every time his tip faintly brushed against a certain something. A certain something that Phainon refused to think about unless he wanted to cum and make a mess of himself right now.

“I don't mind,” Phainon breathlessly spoke, watching Mydei raise himself on his knees and reach for something behind him. Which Phainon soon found out, from the jolt and the deep pleasure rushing through Phainon's body, was his leaking dick.

His body was trembling violently underneath Mydei as the head of his dick finally kissed something soft, something firm, and something warm. It was a sensation Phainon could never dream of, even while masturbating, and his eyes widened as another gasp left his lips at the feeling of it pulsing against him and trying to pull him closer.

“You don't know how long I've been waiting for this,” Mydei mumbled under his breath as a satisfied sigh left his lips. Phainon wasn't sure if he was supposed to be hearing this vulgar confession, and he opened his mouth to ask only for an abrupt moan to cut him off when something warm wrapped around his quivering tip. Phainon hit his head against the wall again, squeezing his eyes shut as lengthy moans and gasps echoed into the air. The heat was sucking his dick inside and massaging his length thoroughly, and Phainon's sanity was disappearing with every millimeter that disappeared inside Mydei and the heat that continued to suck him inside. He could barely breathe and could barely even think over this warmth caressing him so perfectly, and his hips were trembling just trying to stop himself from slamming his dick straight inside this tempting, tantalizing warmth that was twitching so deliciously around him.

His ears, which were only registering Phainon's own embarrassing sounds, faintly caught onto Mydei's continued vulgar confession through grunts and soft moans:

“I… have been thinking of this… for so many–ngh–nights. So much so that even… hah... even touching myself from the front… wasn't enough anymore.”

Deep moans reverberated through both of their chests when Mydei's behind finally dropped into Phainon's lap once more. Phainon was sweating more than he had ever had before, and he was desperately heaving his chest for breath over the churning pleasure soaring from his lower stomach and heating up every single one of his limbs.

“Mydei…” Phainon groaned softly. He was so hard inside of Mydei, he swore he felt his own dick pulsing against Mydei's walls. “Do you… mean that?”

“You cannot begin to imagine how long I have been waiting for this.” Mydei's voice was so unwavering and so sure of himself, and it felt as if someone punched Phainon in the heart over how much it thumped in his chest.

“How long?” Phainon gazed at the beauty seated so prettily in his lap through half-lidded eyes. He could barely make out Mydei's head bowed low as he adjusted to the burning rod situated deep inside of him and his bare chest rapidly heaving for air to fill his lungs. Phainon's eyes dropped down to the two perky nipples staring straight at him, rising and falling with every breath, and he swallowed thickly at the lewd sight.

“I cannot even fathom for how long,” Mydei breathlessly answered, swallowing to dry his scratchy throat. “I have liked you longer than you are thinking.”

There wasn't an exact number in Phainon's mind. He was only thinking of how much time he had wasted yearning and lusting for his best friend, of all the lonely nights Phainon had touched himself in this very bedroom, and even his childhood bedroom when he hit puberty, only for said best friend to be fingering himself to the thought of Phainon almost every night as well–maybe even at the exact same time Phainon was masturbating. He gulped at the image of Mydei's thick fingers shoved up his entrance and prying himself open to thoughts of Phainon, and that was when the thought clicked in his mind.

“Wait, when did you–”

“When I was blowing you.” Mydei chuckled, cutting him off and reading Phainon's mind as he always did. “Was my blowjob that good you didn't notice me fingering myself open for this?”

“I–” Phainon swore his face was glowing as brightly as the crimson ends of Mydei’s hair as his lips dropped wide open. “Do it again. I want to watch.”

Mydei's eyes glowed dangerously as he debated the idea in his head. “Hmph. Next time.”

Phainon's heart skipped a beat at his words–at his promise. Next time. There was going to be a next time. A next time they would make love and where they would be connected as one. Phainon kept the promise close to his pounding heart, already looking forward to that moment, so much so that he almost forgot that he was already balls deep inside of that man at the forefront of his mind.

A filthy moan left Phainon's throat when Mydei pushed himself upward only to drop straight down into his lap. Phainon's cock delved deeply inside of Mydei, rutting against his inner walls and causing both men to scream. Hands flew to Mydei's waist in any attempt to root Phainon to reality, but the soft skin moving underneath his palms completely blanked out his mind. He instinctively bucked his hips, driving deeper into the heat that was deliciously wrapping around his length, and his dick quivered in absolute delight at the pleasure rising in his core and the walls that were equally twitching around him with every thrust of his hips.

Mydei gasped sharply at the action, wrapping his arms around Phainon and burying his face and his moans into the crook of Phainon's neck. Phainon gritted his teeth as his thrusting hips soon sped up, reaching a breaking pace that had Mydei's lips permanently dropped open to release moan after moan. Each and every vulgar noise vibrated along Phainon's skin, and every moan and whimper echoed in Phainon's ears along with the slapping of their sweating skin. Phainon's mind was completely clouded by lust, and his hips were moving on their own. Nothing would be able to come between Phainon and the pleasure building in his stomach. Nothing would be able to come between Phainon's cock that was thrusting in and out of Mydei's quivering warmth.

Hands buried themselves into the back of Phainon's hair, and Phainon lurched forward, burying his nose into golden hair and planting messy kisses all along his lover's skin. Shivers rushed down Phainon's spine at the nimble fingers playing with his silver hair, and it only spurred his hips to pummel this beautifully twitching hole even faster. Mydei's walls were molded so perfectly around the shape and size of Phainon's dick, almost as if they were made for each other. Almost as if Phainon belonged here, fucking Mydei forever.

Phainon was becoming addicted to the sounds reverberating in the closet and the scent of sweat and sex sticking to their bodies. He was addicted to their moans intertwining in the night air, the slapping of their skinship resounding loudly with every drive of Phainon's hips, and the faint squelching that Phainon could faintly pick up from Mydei's stretched entrance. All of these noises shot straight into his gut, where his lower abdomen was desperately clenching to hold back his second orgasm of the night, but the pleasure and heat were flaring in his core, sinking into his mind to the point where Phainon could only think of this man bouncing in his lap with every deep thrust.

He shifted ever so slightly, mostly because Mydei was slipping down his thighs with how rough his thrusts had been, but Mydei's moans suddenly turned into screams when Phainon thrust upwards once more. Parted lips pushed against Phainon's skin, sinking and biting teeth prodding at his shoulder and neck in an attempt to muffle the wanton moans leaving his lips, and Phainon’s thrusting hips abruptly paused. He glanced at Mydei, concern etched across his face, but he could only see a head of golden hair trembling within the crook of his neck.

Teeth unrooted themselves from his skin as a raspy voice mumbled against his shoulder: “Again, Phainon.”

Grasping Mydei's waist tightly within his hands, Phainon followed his command, thrusting his hips and making the man within his embrace spasm violently. A loud moan filled the closet, and it was then that Phainon realized that this was the exact spot he should be aiming for.

Without being told, Phainon resumed his breaking pace from before, and the walls massaging around Phainon's dick tightened with every brush against Mydei's sweet spot. It took his breath away with how tight and hot it was inside, and Phainon desperately chased that friction rubbing against his thrusting length. He pummeled inside of Mydei's hole, aiming for that sweet spot that had Mydei screaming and groaning Phainon's name, and Phainon cursed at the pleasure that he could no longer hold back from hearing his name being called so sweetly.

“Mydei, fuck, I can't–” Phainon squeezed his eyes shut while trying to hold himself back, but it only made the pleasure his dick was quivering in and thrusting into all that much more heightened. Mydei's insides were squeezing around his entire length as if trying to coax more precum to slip out of his already leaking tip, and that familiar feeling began churning within his gut the more Mydei squeezed and tightened around him.

Phainon had to pull out, right? He couldn't just cum inside of Mydei–not in here, in his entrance, at least. But it was so hard to stop his pummeling hips from sinking deeper inside of Mydei's warmth and brushing against his twitching insides.

Phainon's rationality had completely disappeared as he chased his orgasm, and all thoughts of consideration were beginning to disappear along with it as his mind was consumed with the singular thought of filling his best friend to the brim with his own cum.

His best friend, whom Phainon had been chasing after for years. His best friend, whom Phainon had been dreaming of and imagining doing this very same thing with him for so many years. Mydeimos, whom Phainon had been yearning for, searching for, and looking after for so many decades. Mydei, who was currently bouncing in Phainon's lap, with his hole stretched to envelop Phainon's pulsing cock.

Mydei pushed himself from the crook of Phainon's neck, with soft grunts and whimpers brushing against his ears as Mydei leaned toward him, whispering into his ear, “Cum inside for me, Phainon.”

His vulgar speech, his husky voice, his hot breath, Phainon's name dancing upon his lips–all of it sent Phainon's body to violently spasm against the other man as his vision turned white. Grasping Mydei's waist in a vice grip, he came once again, back arching off the wall as he slammed his hips against Mydei's behind and stuffed him deeply with his cum that rushed inside in thick streams. Phainon threw his head forward, burying his face into Mydei's neck as he moaned loudly, crying Mydei’s name as his hips jolted and trembled with every stream of cum that spilled from his quivering tip. And Mydei's walls were equally quivering in absolute pleasure at every rush of cum that reached even deeper than Phainon's dick could, milking and squeezing every last drop from his pulsing cock.

Phainon was spilling everything left inside of him, pushing against Mydei's prostate and riding out his orgasm, and Mydei could not take the stimulation anymore of Phainon twitching against his spasming prostate and filling Mydei with his cum. It wasn't long until Phainon's name rang in the closet, and Mydei's body began trembling in Phainon's hold as he reached his own orgasm, spilling everything he was holding back and riding out his high along with Phainon. Mydei's dick had been rutting against Phainon's shirt with every rough thrust of Phainon's hips, and soon, cum stained Phainon's pajama shirt as Mydei came, a tandem of moans echoing in Phainon's ears.

It felt like Phainon's ears were blown out as his vision slowly returned to the darkness once more. Mydei had slumped against him, with their chests rubbing against each other with every deep gasp for breath. Phainon pulled his hands from Mydei's sweating skin as he sat there, recovering from the best orgasm he had ever had in his life, and he winced when Mydei pushed himself up to stare at Phainon. His recovering dick was still balls deep inside of Mydei, and every breath from Mydei was sending Phainon into a spiral.

“Once you catch your breath,” Mydei faintly spoke, swallowing once again to soothe his aching throat, “do you want to go again?”

Eyes widening in shock, a surprised laugh left Phainon's lips. He was not expecting those words to come out of Mydei right now, and he wrapped his arms around Mydei’s waist to pull him closer, ignoring how his dick screamed from the overstimulation of brushing against Mydei's equally spasming walls.

Phainon smirked, tilting his head to the side as he stared upwards into the most gorgeous eyes Phainon would ever lay eyes on. “I can give you all the time in the world to catch your breath if you need, Mydei.”

“HKS,” Mydei growled at Phainon's taunt. “Fine, then let's get started.”

Phainon should not have teased Mydei. He should not have teased Mydei at all. Mydei's eyes were glowing with a furious rage as he slammed his hips down on Phainon with no mercy, causing Phainon to moan at the top of his lungs. But that didn't deter Mydei in the slightest, who repeated the action again, and again, and again, until it felt like Phainon was cumming with every single thrust.

Phainon's hands flew to Mydei's waist in any sort of attempt to stop the man, but it was all futile.

He could not override Mydei's desire to reign over the other, and he could do nothing except accept the waves of pleasure that were crashing into his chest. Tears were gathering in the corners of Phainon's eyes with each merciless thrust of Mydei’s hips to the point where Phainon could no longer breathe, yet Phainon still had enough air in his lungs to scream Mydei’s name into the night air.

Note to self: Do not taunt Mydei in bed. Or… closet, in this case.

“You think they finally confessed?”

Cipher was leisurely lounging on Phainon's couch in his living room, munching on a bag of chips she found in his pantry. They were one of those healthy chips, but she had to work with what she had. She was drunk and hungry, and Phainon only had leaves in his refrigerator.

“Since it's been more than seven minutes, it's safe to assume they're having the time of their lives right now,” Anaxa mumbled from where he sat on the armrest of the couch.

“Finally!” Hyacine cried exasperatedly from where she was lying on the floor. She was lying on her stomach, swaying her feet in the air. “They've been so obvious about their feelings for each other since we've known them!”

“It's a miracle they didn't confess before!” Tribbie laughed.

“No amount of shoving them together didn't do it.” Aglaea chuckled. “Castorice, I'll have to applaud you for such a good idea.”

“Thank you, Aglaea.” A faint tint of red colored Castorice's face. “Do you think they kissed right when it turned midnight?"

“I don't want to think about that or what they're doing in that closet right now,” Anaxa snapped.

“I think they did!” Hyacine cut in. “I'd really like to think so.”

“Does that mean we're all sleeping out here?” Castorice glanced around at the group crowded in the living room. The moment the two were shoved into the closet, everyone fled to the living room to give them space. But, they were in there for so long that everyone was well aware of exactly what those two were getting up to in that walk-in closet. Considering they all also drank as well, some a little more than others, no one could drive home and leave the two lovebirds alone.

“I call dibs on the couch!” Cipher immediately yelled.

“I think the couch pulls out, Cipher,” Anaxa noted, scanning the exterior of the couch that he was barely sitting on.

“I don't care. I called dibs.”

Aglaea softly laughed to herself. “Cipher, won't you share the couch with me?”

Cipher's demeanor immediately changed, and she shot off the couch to give the other woman more space. “Of course I will, Aglaea!”

The rest of the night was spent deciding their sleeping arrangements in the living room, while the two lovebirds didn't emerge from the closet until the very next morning.
